Determinants and Management of Make-and-Buy: An Extension ...

This approach not only allows distinguishing different types of make-and-buy but also enables an explanation of determinants, management mechanisms, and performance implications of each make-and-buy type separately. Empirical analysis with data from the German automotive industry shows predominant support for the hypotheses. Determinants and Management of Make-and-Buy | SpringerLink

This study combines household survey data that evaluates the economic determinants of program sustainability with a detailed hydrological model that explores location-specific effects of SLWMstructures. Household survey analysis suggests that households that invested in SLWMinfrastructure on their agricultural plots between 1992 and 2002 and subsequently maintained those structures had a 24 percent higher value of production in 2010 than farming households that did not make such SLWM investments.
